The Dry Stone Walling Association, founded in 1968, is a registered charity and membership organisation. A major part of the Association's work is in practical skills training and certification. The Craftsman Certification Scheme offers a nationally, accredited range of practical tests solely for the craft. Combined with this is a need for instructors who are both competent in their craft and in their instructional training. The Association offers in-house training for instructors wishing to teach courses in dry stone walling. Instructors should not work beyond the level of certification they personally hold.

The Association requires its branches to use only those instructors on this list as appropriate for the level of course being offered. Other organisations operating courses that offer skills training in dry stone walling are encouraged to use individuals from this list, appropriate for the level of course being offered.

This list is divided into counties and within each region members are shown alphabetically with their level of certification and their instructional skills level. Phone numbers and email addresses are included where known.

Each entry displays a code for the instructional skills level of that member. These are:

TT[2]: An instructor trained by DSWA who holds at least the DSWA Advanced Certificate.
Able to undertake training of beginners and more advanced techniques.

TT[1]: An instructor trained by DSWA who holds at least the DSWA Intermediate Certificate.
Able to undertake training of beginners.

T[c]: An instructor holding appropriate external qualifications exhibited to DSWA and currently meeting the DSWA requirements for instruction of training courses at a level appropriate to the qualification held.
